50/50 Booths: Rules and Guidelines

50/50 booths include booth sales conducted by two Juliettes or one Juliette and a troop Girl Scout, who take their own cookies to sell at a booth and split the sales evenly among themselves.

When 50/50 Booths are OKAY:

1. If you are a Juliette working with another Juliette.
2. When the entire stock of troop cookies is distributed to all participating girls, there are not any troop cookies remaining and no troop inventory, then troop girls can reach out to a Juliette to work with her.
3. If an entire troop of girls has decided to stop selling at booths, and there is a girl in the troop that is still selling and trying to reach her goals, then troop girl can reach out to a Juliette to work with her.
4. If a troop is scheduled for a booth and one girl/adult cancels last minute and no one else from your troop can work it, then the troop can reach out to a Juliette to work with her.

When 50/50 Booths are NOT OKAY:

1. When one girl from a troop is doing "buddy" selling with a Juliette or other troop on the side and receiving the full 50% credit for those booths, while the rest of the troop is selling together and their sales are being calculated on the booth calculator as even/equal distribution based on man hours worked.
2. Selling with a troop girl at their scheduled booth when someone from their troop is available to work the booth.
3. Selling with a troop girl when the troop does not want to cancel a good booth.
 - a. An emergency is not defined as having planned to work a booth with a troop. If an "emergency" is being planned, than it is not an emergency. The booth should be cancelled.
 - b. A true emergency is just that: a last minute coverage.
